

Yardies Food 1.0 App launch - The Recipes Engine

For Immediate Release

Yardies Food announces the launch of the recipe app “Yardies Food 1.0 - A Recipes Engine and multiple Ordering machine” on both iOS and Android devices. Members can now register on Yardies Food from the Apple and Google test link provided on their website to organize, save, and print unlimited recipes, without being overwhelmed by the volume to handle and access quickly.

Yardies Food recipe App creates a social platform that allows users to easily trade, modify or gift their or other user’s recipes in different languages from ONE account. At the same time, making family mealtime less stressful and finding favorite recipes quickly for meal planning.

“I am thrilled to offer our solution for recipe developers to manage their copyright and get a fair compensation for their time, work, skills, and beautiful contents. We are glad to have already attracted plenty of influencers in the food business willing to give it a go and maybe become one of our ambassadors.” – Yardies Food’ s owner, Sylvaine Francis.

“Just imagine a Chef like Gordon Ramsay taking the time to modify your recipe and adding it in his profile as worthy of his own modifications! What a boost for any Foodie or Cook...” – she continues.

Yardies Food is the modern solution to organizing recipes online, providing a digital recipe book and easily create a ready-to-print cookbook resource to be shared with friends, families or even submission for an e-book (provided that all watermarked have been removed and copyrights respected). People who enjoy home cooking, cooking clubs and community groups or just the joy of sharing meals around the table are already on board, and it is for Sylvaine Francis the uplifting part, at this early stage of her App launch.

Yardies Food wants to be known for providing a social place for members worldwide to keep all their favorite recipes in one place and have fun sharing with family and friends while also passing those along to the next generation, their recipes on this platform are an asset.

Yardies Food is providing the following:
